The case against Mr. L. C. Gisselbrecht was heard in the White Temple yesterday morning. Commonwealth's-Attorney D. C. Richardson was present to take care of the interests of the city's side, while Mr. H. M. Smith, Jr., was engaged as counsel for Mr. Gisselbrecht. The evidence was heard at length by Justice Crutchfield, though the machine man pleaded guilty and his counsel admitted that a law was in existence condemning the use of such appliances for coining money. Yet it was apparent that the accussed had been more guilty of ignorance of the law than any disposition to make money dishonestly. Then Mr. Richardson asked for his discharge. In dismissing the case, however, Justice Crutchfield sternly denounced the use of such means and machines for moneymaking, and declared his leniency this time would only be equalled by the severity with which he would handle all future offenders.

NOT MUCH VENDETTA ABOUT IT. This the Impression of Those Familiar with Mr. Holleran's Death. The report that the death of Mr. Thomas J. Holleran, who was killed on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad track last Thursday, was thought to be the re sult of a vendetta, was a genuine sur prise, and especially was this the case in regard to the relatives of the de-ceased. It has been denounced by the police, the Coroner, and Mr. Holleran's friends as neither more nor less than a silly canard. It was suggested that the unfortunate man had been mur-dered by vengeful Italians, and the body placed upon the track to conceal crime. The motive alleged was venge of the death of a barkeeper ployed at the saloon of A. Girolami, was shot by Holleren about a year and

The widow of the deceased stated yes terday that she had heard no such ru-mor until her attention was called to a newspaper article relative to it. She was much distressed at its publication. Mrs. Hogan, sister-in-law of Mrs. leran, and other connections of the unfortunate man also said that such idea had never been suggested, and was entirely discredited. #### THE UNION STOCK-YARDS SCHEME It May Fell Through Owing to Inability to Secure a Site. The cattle-brokers are still divided as to the location of union stock-yards, and the whole scheme seems likely to fall to the ground. The option secured on property situated on the north side has lapsed, but this location would doubtless have been abandoned, owing to the opposition it met with at the hands of citizens of that section, who claimed that it would depreciate property values, and on this account it was met with a very strenuous opposition. The difficulty hitherto experienced in deciding upon a location has been caused by the conflicting interests of the five firms most interested. A situation has not yet been found that would be acceptable to all, and until this is done the proposed plan cannot take definite shape. to the location of union stock-yards,

THE DESIRE FOR WEALTH.

The Risks That Men Will Take in Order to Get Rich Quickly.

In spite of solemn and repeated warnings, there are now thousands of adventurers en route to the Alaskan gold-fields, who will in all human probability face actual starvation before the end of the coming winter. Hundreds more, equally foethardy, will make the attempt to reach the Klondike regions before the present senson is over even though they present season is over, even though they still have funds and time letto return to civilization before the ice kit holds sway over the frozen north.

The penalty that men will pay for sudden wealth does not stop short of life itself. Incongruous as it may appear, men will barter health, position, the most ordinary comforts and decencies of tarvation and death for the mere hope that sudden wealth will be their por-

But where one succeeds thousands fall not the way. Nature builds slowly when she builds substantially. Even if a man makes a fortune in a day, he is almost sure to squander it. In making money a man should acquire habits that will enable him to take care of what he has money, and then he will know how to ake care of it. Build slowly, if you would build safely.

Don't run mad after gold; don't specu-late. Take out shares in a good building and loan association-as many shares tion for your fortune. There is no in-vestment that is quite so profitable and Business is now waking up, and the building and loan associations Richmond have a bright future. she invest in them now will get their

TRADING STAMPS.

A Business Plan of Interest to Everybody Who Buys.

In many store windows throughout the city there will be seen a small placard announcing that trading stamps are surplied within. As a great many do not understand the meaning of these cards, the Dispatch will explain it for their benefit. It represents a proof seed benefit. fit. It represents a novel and inter-esting business plan, which is conducted by the Richmond Trading Stamp Company, and the plan of which is this Trading stamps are issued to merchants or shopkeepers, and a person making purchases by asking for trading stamp will receive one stamp for each and every 10 cents represented in their purchase. In conjunction with this is is-sued a little book, which contains the names of the merchants who have arranged with the company to handle the stamps and wherein the stamps are pasted until the book is filled. When filled the possessor of the book may take it to their store and exchange it for his or her choice of a large variety of magnificent articles, such as quadruple-plated silverware, books, pictures, clocks, lamps, furniture, bicycles, cameras, sewingmachines, musical insuruments, and a multitude of other valuable articles, useful and ornamental. The company has a purple of agents out of the company has a number of agents out distributing these stamp books to housekeepers.

The company has operated its nove plan of business with success and credit in the United States, where it has fifty seven stores. All the premiums dis-tributed by the company are guaranteed to be of the best quality. Don't fall to pay their store a visit. Open every eve-ning through the month of September.
